PIONEERING YESTERDAY, TODAY AND TOMORROW

Official Newsletter of the National Society of the Sons of Utah Pioneers™

November 2012, Volume 8, Number 11

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

The month of November is upon us, and brings with it memories of huge family gatherings over the years – All because we have been taught the glories of families, and being banded together in celebration of the ties of families being together.

We look way back in decades, even in centuries and rekindle our memories over the name of "The Mayflower," "Plymouth Rock," the Indians, some friendly and others to the contrary. We strive to strengthen our knowledge of the struggles, wars, and inhumanness of those first settlers, who had escaped from the clutches of those who persisted in persecution of people in search of a place, and new civilization of freedom.

November, 1620, will stand forever in our memories because every last one of us has shares in enjoying the freedoms such efforts brought home to us.

Two young people on that ship, in those days of 1620, were married upon arrival in the new world. John Howland and Elizabeth Tilley were pledged to love, honor, and obey. Together they had 10 children, later totaling 88 grandchildren. They are ancestors of my wife, Marcia. Twelve generations separate John and Elizabeth from our generation today. It is absolutely amazing to contemplate the record keeping, the time and effort, the steady beat of hearts and minds bent on knowing about their ancestors.

Now it is Thanksgiving time and we are filled with many memories of "Thanksgiving" day beaming brightly in our memories. When I think about days of Thanksgiving, the floods of memories come of cousins, grandparents, aunts and uncles, pet animals, crowds of people in a crowded house, a heavily laden table that stretched the full lengths of rooms. And, it isn't any different today. Feelings are the same, because it is a mental reawakening into family days. What joyful memories!

To each of you I express my love and appreciation for you, for your strengths, your devotion to our goals. I am so very grateful for life, liberty and the opportunity to make a difference. It isn't just John and Elizabeth's family, but all of those in between, for they too, are part of our makeup and futures.

May each of you have special days in this month of November. Don't be afraid of putting an arm round the weak, tired, and heartsick. I am so grateful to be part of this great organization, and to love this great SUP building as I do.

Thank you, bless you and strive to hold to the rod as we have been taught, as demonstrated by John Howland and Elizabeth Tilley.

Thursday evening, 8 November, was a special night of music from remembrances of our military veterans. The 80 attendees enjoyed hearing the music sung by the "Andrews Sisters" (below) from the days of the Second World War.

His talk was timely and gave all of us an understanding of the pressures and challenges faced by our warriors in our days. His remarks were truly invigorating and brought all of us to a feeling of appreciation for our veterans and active military personnel. We truly felt the heart strains of music and song, and spoken words by a great man, who gave lifelong service to the benefit of all. We knew that we had listened to words uttered by a great patriot and a spiritual leader. Thank you, General Oaks, from all of us.

After the music and a delightful dinner we were treated to a very inspiring talk by our guest speaker, emeritus member of the Seventy and Air Force General, (Retired), Robert C. Oaks (top right). General Oaks retired, after 35 years of service, in 1994. His service to the rank of four star involved flying air force fighters in the Vietnam War, plus many assignments of training, organizing, directing in all air force activities, engagements, air support campaigns, etc. His was a very influential career culminating with service as supreme commander of all Air Force personnel and operations for all of Europe.

OKAY, WHO INVITED YOU AND WHAT ARE YOU GOING TO DO ABOUT IT?

By Tom Powell, Director Membership

Well, you could do nothing or you could remember when you were first invited to join Sons of Utah Pioneers. Why in the world did you ever accept an invitation to attend a chapter meeting in the first place? Was it because you felt obligated to a friend? Maybe you thought you might meet some new friends. You thought there might be some historical significance? You thought it might just have some eternal value? Or, maybe you thought it just might be a long way to go to get a free meal? Well, whatever the reason, you have been and are now a member of Sons of Utah Pioneers and you have stayed because you have found something very meaningful probably including all of the above reasons and more. As such, what are you going to do about your membership?

Many times we become members of some organization and just sit there, kind of as a bump on a log. We absorb excellent information. We get mentally and emotionally charged. We get full with not only edible provisions, but with the company of long time companions. But then, the progress stops. It stops at a time that the experiences you are having could easily be shared by others who could and would enjoy the same opportunities if only someone, such as yourself, would invite them to do so. Quite frankly, there is a lot of satisfaction in sitting in a meeting, looking around the room at interested participants and realizing that you are responsible for a number of them being there.

So why not put your membership to the expansion test. With excitement, tell someone about the Sons of Utah Pioneers and then host them to a chapter meeting or take them on a trek with you. See what you can do to let others in on the good fellowship, the educational experience and the spiritual uplift that comes from being active in this great organization – the Sons of Utah Pioneers.

BRIGHAM YOUNG CHAPTER (Provo, Utah)

– Mark Robison (right) spoke to the chapter on 20 September. He took over as head track coach at BYU in 2001, and since that time his athletes have won a number of championships.

In his talk, however, he did not focus on his own career, but rather he talked about the history of track, especially long distance running among United States athletes. He emphasized the difficulties that athletes overcame in order to succeed.

One story he told was particularly impressive. He told us about Glenn Cunningham, often called the Kansas Flyer. When Cunningham was eight years old, his legs and feet were badly burned in the explosion of a heater in his schoolhouse. Glenn and his brother Floyd helped pay their own way by cleaning the schoolhouse. The explosion took place because someone had filled the schoolhouse heater with gasoline instead of kerosene. The explosion killed Floyd and left Glenn's legs and feet so badly burned that doctors predicted he would never walk again. Through tenacity on his part, his religious faith, and new therapy on the part of the doctors, he regained his ability to walk. He also began to train as a distance runner.

Cunningham participated in the 1932 Summer Olympics in Los Angeles and again in the 1936 Olympics in Berlin. In the 1936 Olympics he developed a close lifelong relationship with Jesse Owens, an African-American athlete who won four gold medals and whom Adolph Hitler refused to congratulate. Cunningham won the gold medal in the 800-meter race in which he set the world record.

In 1938 Cunningham set the world record of 4:04.4 minutes for the indoor mile. He tried to run a four-minute mile, but was not successful. The four-minute mile was eventually achieved by Roger Bannister in 1954.

Coach Robison also told us of other athletes who succeeded through their determination and their religious faith.

COTTON MISSION CHAPTER (St. George, Utah) – Elder Terry Wade and his wife Gina

(left) spoke to the chapter at their annual scholarship fund raising dinner on 18 September. Terry is currently serving as an Area-Authority

Seventy for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, having previously served as a mission president in Paraguay, Stake President of the St. George Washington Fields Stake and a Bishop of the St. George First Ward.

Sister Wade told the touching story of her great-great grandmother, who crossed the plains with the Martin Handcart Company. She had determined that she was not going to survive and had put on the dress she had brought with her, went off from the camp to contemplate, and was found and saved by a young man in the rescue party, picked up and placed on his horse. They were later married and he became Sister Wade's great-great grandfather. She calls this a great love story and then encouraged each of us to have tender hearts and treat our companions with love and kindness at all times.

Elder Wade then spoke about the blessing of providing our posterity with not only a legacy of material capital but a legacy of spiritual capital which will forge their lives and prepare them for challenging times. As he developed this theme he told of the legacy of testimony and faith he had received from his grandfather through the many examples and the testimonies he had shared with him. He related that a returned missionary, in response to a question he had asked regarding what was at the top of his list of things he could do to direct his thoughts to spiritual things responded, "To read the written testimony I have from my father." Elder Wade then encouraged all of us to be diligent in leaving a legacy of spiritual capital for our posterity.

JORDAN RIVER CHAPTER (Southwest Salt Lake Valley, Utah) – Rob Adamson, his wife Cheryl, and their 13 year old daughter, Sarah, (below) presented the program for their October 3rd meeting. Rob teaches Art at SLCC. (See his original paintings in the background!) His paintings depict historical points of interest in Utah. His wife, Cheryl, helped with some of the narration. Their daughter, Sarah, played some wonderful music of the era on her violin accompanied by her mother on the piano.

HOLLADAY CHAPTER (Holladay, Utah) – The Holladay Chapter members met at the Sons of Utah Pioneers Headquarters building on September 15.

William W. Tanner, DDS, was our guest speaker. He has compiled, written, and published eight books on Church and Family History.

A number of years ago he donated a book which he had compiled on his great-grandfather Joseph Smith Tanner, which was a project that had been going on for over 20 years. It is a volume of over 5700 names in the index. There are 320 personal histories of his ancestors and some 200 pictures. How did he get started on this journey? "I guess I was born with a desire to know my family. I recall as little boy after attending family gatherings and funerals, of being interested in who the people were and how they fit."

Brother Tanner related many historical stories of his ancestors and the divine intervention as he has gone about gathering the histories and publishing those histories for future generations.

Brother Tanner concluded with the patriarch of the Tanner family, John Tanner. A story of his life is prepared on a DVD called Treasure In Heaven. It is a story of conversion and consecration.

LEHI CHAPTER (Lehi, Utah) – Their September 15 meeting was held at the Pioneer Village in Provo. This facility, located at 500 West and 600 North is sponsored by the Brigham Young Chapter. The village has 21 pioneer related buildings or means of transportation. It is a wonderful opportunity to view all aspects of pioneer life. At the village there is a self-guided tour that can be taken that includes all the buildings, the monument and bell and highlights the 1849 flag.

Displays include this wagon. Of particular interest were the springs used for suspension of the wagon box/axle areas. One wagon had leaf springs for the seat that would have softened the many bumps that sore bodies experienced.

At the village there is a contraption that was used to shoe the oxen. Can you imagine trying to control the beast as you hold their foot and hammer nails into the hoof? There are only two in the country and one of them is right here in Utah County.

There is a functional blacksmith shop. One of the things we learned about blacksmithing was the fact that it was a constant process. Repairs were needed on wagons, cooking utensils, shoeing animals and etc. Scrap metal was carried across the plains. The metal needed to create and repair was used daily. Any piece of metal, no matter how small, was picked up and used.

Mel is shown above working hard at creating at the blacksmith forge and anvil. We thank him for his time and effort. It was fun to watch and see his creations.

OGDEN PIONEER CHAPTER (Ogden, Utah) – Our speaker for our October meeting was

Michael Kennedy, 3rd (left) great grandson of Joseph Smith Jr. and Emma Hale Smith. He spoke to us about the descendants of Joseph and Emma. There are very few descendants, only about 2200 with many of those living now. This is compared to the descendants of Hyrum and Jerusha which number over 23,000.

Over the years almost none of Joseph's descendants have joined the Church until this generation. As of now there are over 200 family members who have joined the Church and that is increasing regularly.

He referred to D&C 109, which is the dedication of the Kirtland Temple. In that prayer, verses 68-70 refer to Joseph and his family and asks the Lord's blessings upon them. The way it is worded implies that it may be some time before they do come into the fold.

One of the wonderful things happening is that the members of the Church are gaining an increased understanding and acceptance of Emma and the Elect Lady that she was and is. She stood by the side of the Prophet through the early years of the restoration and was a great help and comfort to him. She was always by his side and never wavered in her support of him and the Gospel. She died with Joseph's name on her lips. Michael is one of the producers of the movie "Emma Smith, My Story" that does a great job of portraying this wonderful lady.

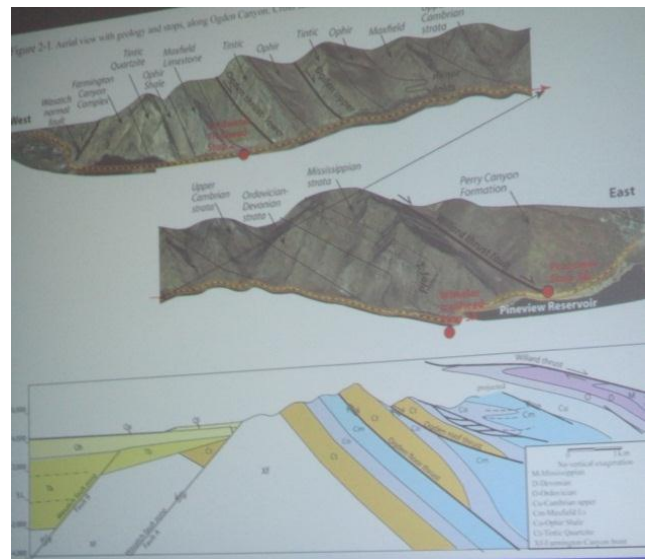

OGDEN VALLEY CHAPTER (Huntsville, Utah)

– On Thursday, 18 October the Ogden Valley Chapter met to hear Dr. Adolph Yonkee (right) talk about the geology of Utah and the Ogden Valley in particular. Dr. Yonkee is a professor of Geological Science at Weber State University where he has served for over 20 years.

He took us back through time to show us what Utah looked like over the millennia and why it looks like it does today. He showed the movements of this piece of the earth's crust that has become our home. The basement rocks that form our land were laid down about 2.5 billion years ago. Portions of this rock are visible in Farmington Canyon and Ogden Canyon. These rocks were folded, twisted and folded again over the course of history. Eventually sedimentary rocks were deposited on top of this basement rock and those were folded and twisted in their turn. As one drives up Ogden Canyon they can see many of these layers standing on edge or twisted into strange formations.

He told us of "snowball earth" where some 800 million years ago the entire earth was sheathed in a heavy layer of ice. Eventually volcanoes spewed enough greenhouse gases into the atmosphere to cause the melting of this ice sheet. This cycle has been repeated several times over the millennia and the results of this can be seen in many places.

Mountain ranges have risen and fallen in our land and we have at times been at the bottom of a shallow sea. Each has contributed to the creation of our land. In recent years, Lake Bonneville covered much of the State of Utah. Some 15,000 years ago it burst through what is now Red Rock Pass, north of Preston Idaho. As the water poured through that pass it reached a volume many times larger than that of the Amazon River, slowing as the level of the water dropped.

Today the land is still moving. Fault lines are being stressed and will eventually slip creating earthquakes. Actually earthquakes are common in the state, we have over 1000 each year. When conditions are right, we will have a big one – but who knows when or where.

SALT LAKE CITY CHAPTER (Salt Lake City, Utah) – “That was the best meeting I’ve been to.” “What an incredible experience.” “Can you believe getting a call from the prophet and his asking you to write his history?” These and many other glowing reports followed this month’s meeting when Heidi Swinton (left) spoke to us.

TO THE RESCUE, the biography of a living prophet written by Heidi Swinton will always be remembered by those of us who listened to her speak of the experiences of preparing, studying and writing the life experiences of Thomas S Monson.

Some of the lessons I’ve learned from hearing her talk is that nothing worthwhile comes without great sacrifice, and when the spirit speaks, go. These are meaningful lessons that each of us can learn from her experience.

One memorable story was when President Monson early in his ministry received a call from one of his parishioners who was very ill in the hospital and needed his help. But his commitment to attend a stake leadership meeting, which had been called, kept him from going until after the meeting. All while he was in the meeting, he would look at his watch. He would feel the urgency to go, but waited. When the closing song was being sung, he darted out of the meeting and went to the hospital. As he arrived, he saw a number of people standing outside of the room in the hall. A nurse in the hall asked, “Are you Bishop Monson?” He said, “Yes.” The nurse replied, “The patient has just passed away, but his last words were, has Bishop Monson come?” It was then that President Monson made a commitment that from then on when he received a request from someone in need or he received the inspiration to call on someone, he would not delay; that he would never push those feelings aside and he would respond to the promptings which come from the Lord immediately.

SEVIER VALLEY CHAPTER (Richfield, Utah) – Last month’s trek to Bryce Canyon was a big success. We started in Kingston Canyon where we viewed the information about the Old Spanish trail. We then proceeded to the Antimony Cemetery where we talked about Levi McCullough, who is there buried. He was one of the Mormon Battalion members who had a very interesting life.

Our next stop was the old dairy/granary/mill in Black Canyon. We then proceeded to the Widtsoe Cemetery in Johns Valley and spent some time in this very unique place. We proceeded to The Bryce Canyon Pines and had a wonderful lunch. We then boarded a bus, traveled into the park where we were greeted by Kim Hyatt, Historic Architect for the Park Service. Kim had come to Richfield to speak to us about Bryce Canyon in August. He accompanied us and pointed out things we would otherwise have missed, about the park. Gordon Topham worked as a ranger at the park in the early 70’s. His wife JoAnn grew up in Tropic, the small town adjacent to the park. Their knowledge added greatly to our trek.

2012 HOLE-IN-THE-ROCK MEDALLIONS ARE NOW AVAILABLE -- Silver medallions are $60. Shiny brass medallions are $10. There is still a limited supply of 2010 PONY EXPRESS & 2011 TELEGRAPH medallions available.

TEMPLE FORK CHAPTER (Logan, Utah) – After the dinner for our September meeting, we adjourned to the Logan Tabernacle to hear the Arrington Lecture speaker.

Terryl Givens delivered the 18th Leonard J. Arrington Mormon History Lecture, “The Prophecy of Enoch as Restoration Blueprint.” He is a writer, historian and professor of literature and religion at the University of Richmond.

Dr. Givens discussed what he considers to be one of the most significant elements of the Mormon faith tradition and the precursor to its profoundest doctrine. In the Book of Moses, the prophet Enoch reveals a blueprint for the restoration of the gospel of Jesus Christ and offers a revolutionary insight to the nature and attributes of God.

Joseph Smith was very immersed in the scriptures. He dated his church history from 1827, not from the first vision in 1820. Moroni told Joseph Smith that Joseph had a work to do. Joseph thought it was a new work, that the Bible was not complete and needed to be added to. Time after time, the record Joseph was translating referred to plain and simple truths that had been excised from the scriptures. Joseph wanted to find the missing scriptures mentioned in the Bible and Book of Mormon. When Joseph received the revelation that is now Moses 1, he knew there was no equivalent account of that information in the Bible. He then started the translation of the Bible.

Joseph was working on Genesis and learned about the prophecy of Enoch. In 1830 the world thought of God as passionless, having no feeling, and not capable of suffering. Joseph learned through revelations about Enoch that God feels pain as infinite as love. Enoch talks of a God of passions and emotions. God is involved in activities on earth. He is not “above” people, but “wept” because of the sins of the people. Givens believes that this underscores Mormonism’s perception of a loving and paternal God.

The revelation says that Enoch saw the world through God’s eyes, his heart swelled, and he wept. After the Enoch vision, Joseph Smith taught in Doctrine and Covenants 128 that what is bound on earth is bound in heaven.

Joseph Smith taught that Moses couldn’t bring the people to God, but Enoch did.

UPPER SNAKE RIVER VALLEY CHAPTER (Rexburg, Idaho) –

Our guest speakers for our September 20th meeting were Doug and Carol Ladle (below) who served in the South Africa Cape Town Mission from September 2010 to March 2012. They spent the first five months of their mission in the city of George in South Africa. It is about the size of Idaho Falls. The country of South Africa has a population of around 48 million of which 79% are Black, 2% Asian, 9% White, and 9% Colored. Johannesburg is the capital and the largest city.

They spent the other 13 months of their mission in Windhoek, Namibia. This area was settled by the Germans and has a population of about 2.1 million with 93% Black. More than 50% of the population lives below the poverty level and oftentimes the people only eat 3 or 4 times a week.

They showed pictures and told about these countries, the wildlife, Church members, and how the people live in their daily lives. Namibia is not issuing any new visas to the missionaries, so the current missionaries will need to leave by October 19, 2012.

There have been requests for copies of the now-published list of Monuments erected over the years by the Sons of Utah Pioneers and the Utah Pioneer Trails and Landmarks Association.

Due to the expense of print copies, only a limited number have been printed for use by the National Board and the SUP Library.

However, DVD copies can be reproduced inexpensively, and are now available to those who want them.

Monuments on DVD's are listed by geographical location with pictures and narrative explaining the historical significance of each monument, with High-Resolution pictures suitable for copying or printing. Currently there are 387 such markers listed.

Since new monuments are being created frequently, only small quantities of the DVD's are produced at a time so that the latest version of the list is always available as they are ordered. Each DVD is in a clear plastic case.

The cost is a $10.00 donation to the SUP Library for each DVD (plus $2.00 shipping if needed)

“Faith in Every Footstep” Grave Markers

In 1997, a Church committee created a marker to be attached to the graves of Pioneers who arrived in the valley prior to the coming of the railroad. These were sold to anyone who wanted to attach one to the grave of his or her ancestor, in commemoration of the sesquicentennial of the arrival of the Pioneers in 1847.

For some time the markers have not been available, and we (the SUP) have had frequent requests as to how to get them. The National office of the SUP has made arrangements to have a number of them manufactured and are making them available to members or others who wish to honor their ancestors by attaching one to his or her grave marker.

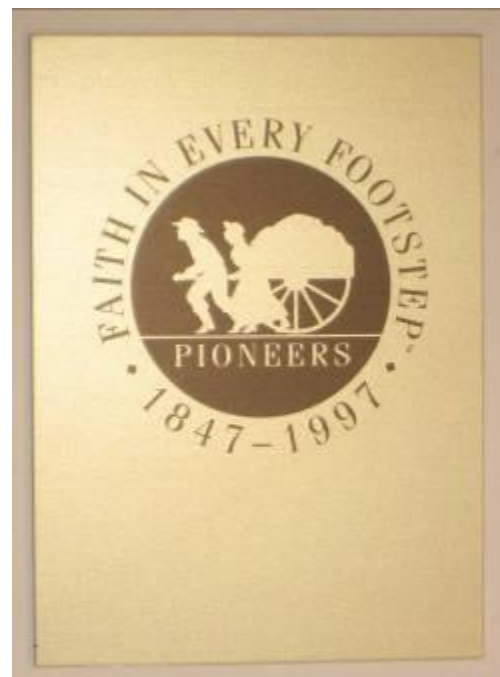

The markers are 2 ½ inches by 3 ½ inches of very durable metal. Those who attached them in 1997 say they have not deteriorated from weather.

The prices are as follows and includes the means of attaching them to a grave marker:

In quantities of 1 to 5, the cost is $15.00 each, plus shipping (if needed). 6 or more would be $12.00 each, plus shipping
